

“Finally, a study of Emma Goldman’s thought that treats her not only as revolutionary activist, sexual liberationist, anarchist, or feminist, but as an original and provocative political thinker. Kathy Ferguson’s own gift for subtle theoretical work, combined with extensive archival research, textual analysis, and keen critical appreciation of Goldman’s analytic compass points and political imagination, have together generated a volume of the first rank.”

—Wendy Brown, Class of 1936 Professor of Political Science, University of California, Berkeley

“Taking Red Emma seriously as a political thinker who theorized through her activism, body, and personal relationships, Kathy Ferguson more than provides a usable past for envisioning a just and joyful world. Ferguson offers a methodology for doing theory, a model for contemporary feminist praxis of the highest order that interrogates the archive through critical thought. A stunning achievement!”

—Eileen Boris, Hull Professor, University of California

“There should be no doubting the importance of this book. Thoroughly and acutely researched, it engages with Goldman as a serious political thinker as well as iconic figure, leading us to re-evaluate our understanding of this complex, powerful and, yes, courageous woman. It is essential reading, and will be for years to come, for anyone wanting to understand Goldman and the philosophy she devoted her life to.”

—Barry Pateman, associate editor of the Emma Goldman Papers, University of California, Berkeley

“This is the best book on Emma Goldman out there—Ferguson engages Goldman like no one else, recounting and reliving for us the distinctive weave of political theory, political acumen, fear, joy, courage, and sheer vitality that was the marvelous event called Emma Goldman. Ferguson has created a book with the rarest of combinations: scholarship of the highest caliber and a fantastic read.”

—Jane Bennett, Johns Hopkins University

Visit this book’s dedicated website: http://www.politicalscience.hawaii.edu/lists/emma_goldman.html

Kathy E. Ferguson is professor of political science and women’s studies at the University of Hawai’i at Manoa.

For orders and information
please contact the publisher

ROWMAN & LITTLEFIELD PUBLISHERS, INC.
A wholly owned subsidiary of
The Rowman & Littlefield Publishing Group, Inc.
4501 Forbes Boulevard, Suite 200
Lanham, Maryland 20706
1-800-462-6420
www.rowmanlittlefield.com

Cover photo: ???

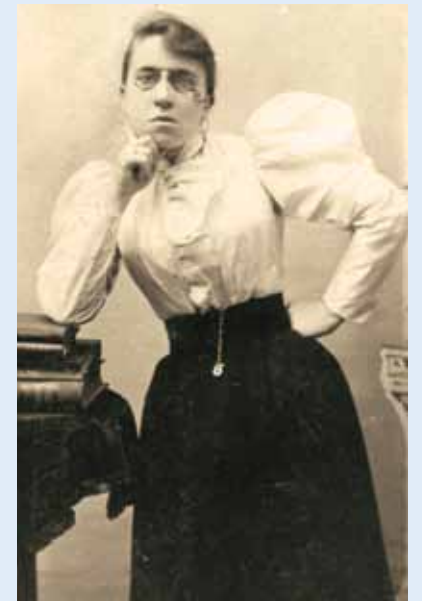

9 780742 523005

ROWMAN & LITTLEFIELD

EMMA GOLDMAN

FERGUSON

EMMA GOLDMAN

Political Thinking in the Streets

KATHY E. FERGUSON